Key Findings

Key Findings

The company maintains stable profitability and lean cost structures, though growth remains modest and potentially seasonal; however, rapid expansion in financing and commerce could soon surpass warehousing as its primary revenue driver.

1. Seasonal growth: Q1 2025 revenue was $12.9M ($51.6M run rate) with CQGR4 of 5.6% (bottom quartile). Revenue appears seasonal with growth stemming from Q1 and Q2 of each year. YoY growth driven mainly by financing/commerce.
2. Light overhead: Both gross margin (22.1%) and operating margin (9.9%) are stable, and the business is profitable with light overhead, with expenses mostly coming from direct costs.

Arya.ag shows stable profitability and efficient costs, but sees modest overall growth, with opportunities in financing.

Arya.ag is India's largest grain commerce platform, offering post-harvest services like storage, financing, and a digital marketplace to streamline agricultural supply chains. It serves smallholder farmers, FPOs, and agribusinesses by enabling efficient storage, access to credit, and commodity trading.

Sector	Latest Revenue / ARR	YoY Growth	Gross Margin	Operating Margin
Overall	$12.9M / $51.6M	1.24x	22.1%	9.9%
Agri-Warehousing	$7.6M / $30.4M	1.11x	11.2%	5.2%
Financing/Commerce	$5.3M / $21.2M	1.47x	36.6%	15.6%

Key Findings
